

E-Blast

Tomorrow, May 1st, is National Principal's Day.

As Educational Assistants and Child and Youth Workers, we know that the climate of a school is often set at the top. We also know that our roles are most effective when we work in true partnership with our school administrators.

While every school dynamic is unique, we want to take this moment to advocate for and celebrate the leadership that supports us. To the Principals and Vice-Principals who:

- Listen to our expertise regarding the students we support;
- Prioritize safety and well-being for both students and staff;
- And recognize that EAs and CYWs are essential pillars of the school community...

We thank you. True leadership is a collaborative effort. When we are supported, our students thrive. We remain committed to building those strong, respectful professional relationships in every building across the WRDSB.

Taking a minute to say Thanks

If you have a Principal or VP who has had your back or gone the extra mile to support your work this year, please consider taking a moment tomorrow to let them know. Acknowledging the leadership we value helps reinforce the supportive culture we all deserve.
